Uses Historic Pen

FRANKFORT, Nov. 17. (AP)—In proclamation to the people of the Commonwealth, urging their help in the Confederate Navy Research work, to secure pensions for descendants of sailors of the Confederate navy, Gov. Fields used a pen, which drew the curiosity of many capitol workers.

The pen, a gold one, was used by General Robert E. Lee when he signed the articles of surrender at Appomattox, April 9, 1865, and now owned by General E. S. Fagg, who requested the proclamation.

President McKimel and President Cleveland also used the pen, General Fagg, said.

New Motor Bus Law

TAYLORSVILLE, Nov. 17 (AP) — A 10-year-old boy was killed today when he was struck by a motor bus on a highway here.

Nets State Big Sum

—Floyd Jackson, 11, was innocently killed when his body was caught under a truck belonging to the Granger Baking company of Louisville, early today. John Wolford, 15, half brother of the victim, was also struck and injured but not seriously. Neighbors who rushed to the scene and extricated Floyd's body believe the boy was instantly killed.

The driver of the truck said his son was shining against the windshield, prevented him seeing the boys before it was too late.

ERANKFOLT, N.Y., Nov. 17. (A.P.)—Revenue totalling $11,726.27, has been certified to W. H. Shanks, auditor for maintenance of roads, by Griffin Kelly, supervisor of bus lines, since the new motor bus law went into effect the middle of June he reported today.

Monthly reports are made to the auditor. The revenue is from licensing of privately operated mo-

The biggest payment in July was by the Blue Goose Motor line, of Louisville, $704.00. In August, the Dixie Traction company, Erlanger, paid $498.00 while in September, the Paducah Interurban company, headed the list with $176.01. Chas. Chanie, Independence, Ky., ranked first in October, with $93.33.

VARNA, Bulgaria, Nov. 17.—(AP).—Into the port of Varna there sailed the other day a schooner bearing a group of Russians seeking a haven. The Rumanian authorities looked them over and, for political reasons, bade them begone without delay. Today the wanderers are headed for a Turkish port, but with little hope that they will be any more welcome there than they were here.

John Horseman came from Pennsylvania and started a little market and flower garden near Norton, Virginia. He found a ready sale for his vegetables, but his flowers were a drug on the market. People were not used to buying flowers. During the summer most anybody who had roses would give you a bouquet.

So along with his vegetables, John began to teach them to "Say It With Flowers." And little by little the idea took root. He erected a small hothouse and began the intensive culture of flowers so that he could furnish them at all times and seasons, and each week the local papers advised to "Say It With Flowers."

The business grew. Other houses were added, until today the Norton Floral Company's plant covers a large area, and the sales mount into many figures. John has taught a large section of people to "Say It With Flowers."

And this leads us to observe that Pineville needs a Chamber of Commerce, through which our business men may take concerted and effective action. Norton has a very active Chamber of Commerce which has been of very great advantage to the people and to the city as a whole. It gives weight to the opinions and wishes of the business firms, enables them to weed out the dead beats, and works to their advantage in many ways. And, best of all, it brings about a spirit of unity and co-operation between the different firms and enables them to see that their problems and difficulties are mutual.

Such an organization would be of incalculable benefit to Pineville and its business institutions one and all.

The lawyer Delmas, whose consistent success before a jury became the wonder and envy of the bar of the country was asked to explain the secret of his power. He did this readily enough. "First, I tell them what I am going to tell them next, I tell it to them, then I tell them what I have told them." In other words, he does exactly what the manufacturers and distributors of Maxwell House Coffee are doing.

Our merchants and business men should take a lesson.—Cumberland Courier.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

THAT in order for any business to achieve real success it must have volume. Volume is necessary to cut down overhead, to get high efficiency, to reduce operating expense, to sell goods or service at the most attractive inducement to buyers.

THAT with present day competitive conditions, heads of business concerns must use good judgment in the methods they use to increase volume.

THAT business will always have its ups and downs. There will always be "good times and dull times." There will always be a constant demand for merchandise as long as people live in this old world of ours.

That the stability and permanence of a business depends in a great way on liberal use of plain "horse sense" on the part of the management.

THAT the persistent use of truthful advertising will increase volume for any business.

THAT advertising increases volume for the simple reason that the people know that advertising invites them to the places of business where they can get service, quality, price and satisfaction.

WHEN PEOPLE buy from business concerns that are persistent advertisers, they know they are doing business with a progressive business men, who are doing things in a manner befitting present day requirements.

Mutual Increase In Swedish-U. S. Trade

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 17.—(AP)—American imports to Sweden have increased from about 10 percent of the country's total before the war to 25 percent for 1923. The 1923 imports amounted to 213,700,000 crowns.

Among the largest imports from the United States are automobiles, which last year amounted to about 23,000,000 crowns in value, while petrol and tires imported represented twice that sum.

The Swedish exports to the United States have also increased from about 1 percent of the total Swedish exports in 1913 to 11 percent last year, amounting to 128,000,000 crowns. Paper, the principal item of export to the United States, is now eight times as much as exported in 1913.

It is estimated a great many people will get real strong exercising to get warm this winter.

Certify October's Inheritance Taxes

FRANKFORT, Nov. 17.—(AP)—October's inheritance taxes, collected by the state tax commission, totalled $27,101.70, it was certified to W. H. Shanks, auditor today.

Five states paid more than $1,000 each: Basil, Doerhoefer, Jefferson county, died April 9, 1923, taxed $12,775.80; W. Glazebrook, Monroe county, died May 6, 1921, taxed $1,170.13; William H. Mackoy, Kenton county, September 14, 1923, estate taxed $1,192.66; James B. Parkes, Madison county, died October 18, 1921, taxed $1,137.36; and Albert B. Sawyer, Jefferson county, May 9, 1923, taxed $1,508.

Payment was paid by 58 estates, the owners of which had lived in 13 states other than Kentucky. Nine New Yorkers were named in the list. The remaining outsiders, with the exception of one in Illinois were all living in the east.

MERE MAN SUPREME

Woman has long been encroaching upon the rights, privileges, and indulgences of mere man. She has usurped the vote, the barber shop, and the cigarette. She may soon revert a generation or two and again endeavor to assert her rights to the corn cob pipe. We had begun to suspect that the male of the species was doomed. But up in Canada we are told of a superman, so super that he usurps the rights of the female of even other species than his own. Witness the captain which heads a despatch to the Detroit Times from Stratford, Ontario.

Stratford Man Wins Egg-Laying Match In Canada.

We are very fond of Mr. Stevenson's poems and have all manner of respect for them but nevertheless we are unsentimental about them as to take more or less delight in perpetrating parodies thereon. We agree with you—that the parody is to poetry what the pun is to wit. But please remember that the author, who condemned the pun took delight in punning. So we who condemn the parody, take delight in parodying.

SONGS OF CHILDHOOD
The waves are waving all around
They wave on you and me—
They wave on mired waves at home
And water waves at sea.

The other day we spent six cents and bought a ticket for one of those automobile drawings—and when we went home, we found one of the chain letters waiting for us—with nine threats of bad luck if we did not send nine copies to nine friends and count nine, nine days. Which shall we do—take a day off and make those nine copies—and lose nine friends—or lose the automobile? —Morphous.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 17.—

An appalling waste of America's vital natural resources makes it certain that manufactured gas is destined to be the fuel of the future and to furnish the world's heat, according to Alexander Forward, of New York, secretary-manager of the American Gas Association, who spoke here today at the convention of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities commissioners.

Stating that the nation's future is bound up in its fuel supply, Mr. Forward said there was no permanent refuge in oil or in water power and that eventually the country would have to draw more and more upon its coal deposits.

In five years "the speaker declared, the fuel requirements of our automobiles alone will amount to 250,000,000 barrels of oil annually, or more than the total oil output when the World War began. The railroads are now using 50,000,000 barrels a year as locomotive fuel. Shortly the tide will turn. Perhaps within ten or 15 years possibly in much less time, the supply of oil in our country will be totally insufficient to meet the demand.

"It is equally futile for America to pin her hopes to waterpower," Mr. Forward declared, "for our industrial plants are now using 60,000,000 horsepower, and at the present rate of increase they will need 100,000,000 horsepower in a dozen years. The most rapid development of water power which public policy will permit cannot save enough coal to even keep up with the increasing demand.

"We must rely on coal," he stated, "and this despite the fact that by the year 1910 we shall in the United States be burning as much coal each year as is now consumed by the entire population of the earth. Furthermore, there is no tangible hope of lower coal prices and it is practically certain that the cost will gradually increase."

According to Mr. Forward, the solution to the fuel problem lies in the economical use of coal in the manufacture of gas and such flexibility in gas rates and gas heating standards as will enable the gas companies of the country to give the greatest service in heat for the least money.

Instead of uniform gas heating standards, the needs of the future will require flexibility so as to permit the individual gas company to manufacture and deliver to its customer gases of such thermal content as will make for the greatest amount of conservation.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT

JNEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—The Democratic party may be down, but evidently isn't out.

For at least one wing of the party even now is planning for the 1928 campaign and already has picked and is grooming a candidate for that contest.

Eastern Democrats of the liberal sort, who backed Al Smith for the Democratic nomination this year, feel that his failure to land the plum and thereby put New York's electoral vote in the Democratic column—and perhaps some others—was due to the fact that up to that time he had been a state, not a national figure.

With him in mind as their hero for 1928 they purpose to remedy that condition, and having done that are hopeful of "better luck next time."

BRIEFLY the program is to enter Al in the 1928 senatorial race in New York, against Jimmy Wadsworth.

It was Wadsworth who put young Teddy Roosevelt across as the Republican nominee for governor this year.

By defeating Teddy Jr. even in the face of the heavy Coolidge majority on the national ticket it is considered Smith also demonstrated his ability to lick Wadsworth.

In a purely state fight such as that of 1924 would be it is felt the job would be even easier than this year.

As a senator Smith then would be expected to catch the national eye as a more effective war than is possible in a mere state campaign.

Two years of experience in the broader field of national politics might make him a better bet than some of the local boys. It is with a view to this that the blocking of his nomination has been so carefully planned.

If he measured favorably at his home state, the problem of getting him across in Washington would be a simple matter.

the Democratic standard bearer in 1928 would be greatly simplified.

SUCH "is" the program—as sketched out while the smoke of the late battle still hangs heavy over the political trenches and the field has not yet been cleared of casualties.

But 1928 is four long years away. And there's many a slip—particularly in politics.

NO La Follette propaganda is intended, nor any contempt of court, when we remark that the Supreme Court is a sight.

No one place of historical interest in all Washington quite equals in interest to visiting tourists the Supreme Court room.

And when the dignified justices in their gaudy black robes are seated behind the bar, an almost sphere of awe and majesty like nothing else to be found anywhere in our government broods over the law room adding to its impressiveness.

When the court is sitting there is a constant stream of visitors. They stand in a long queue outside the door, waiting a chance to enter. Only as seats are vacated in the court's session are others allowed to enter. Then an attendant putting a heavy red silk rope, opens the door and inside an usher whispers the admonition "Quiet, please."

THE court sits in what was originally the Senate chamber. It is a square room, chamber with a vaulted ceiling after the model of a Greek theatre, and above the seats are a balcony for the public.

The white robes on the bench are a sight to see. The robes are of a light blue color, and the white robes are a sight to see.

It is a sight to see. The robes are of a light blue color, and the white robes are a sight to see.

It is a sight to see. The robes are of a light blue color, and the white robes are a sight to see.

It is a sight to see. The robes are of a light blue color, and the white robes are a sight to see.

It is a sight to see. The robes are of a light blue color, and the white robes are a sight to see.

The sale included the entire property of the First Creek Coal Company with all machinery, equipment, buildings and commissary. The price paid was $100,000.

The company will be operated under the new name of The Sapphire Coal Company. The new management has continued operation of the mine, and with every few changes, will retain the same office, commissary and mine force.

Last week, the First Creek Coal Company was offered for sale at public auction in Hazard. A bid of $15,000 was refused by the court.

The new owners operating The Blue Diamond Coal Company are among the most successful coal operators in Eastern Kentucky.

CAPTURED WITH MOONSHINE

HARLAN, Ky., Nov. 17.—Crawford Coldiron was captured about two miles above Lynch Thursday with 60 gallons of moonshine liquor. Coldiron, the liquor and the automobile he was driving were taken into custody and brought to Harlan.

The raid was made by federal prohibition officers. Besides the liquor taken from Coldiron at the home of George Kelsor at Padfork, was searched and a quantity of liquor seized and Kelsor and his wife up under arrest.

Two or three homes at Lynch were searched and liquor found and one small still was destroyed. This is one of the largest liquor raids ever made in Harlan county.

SMALL-POX CASES REPORTED

CARRS FORK, Nov. 17.—Several cases of small-pox have been reported on Carrs Fork. Although no serious cases have yet developed, every effort is being made to hold it in check. Dr. Palmer of Vance was busy the middle of the week vaccinating many people desiring protection.

Barbourville

A move to establish a chapter of the Dixie Highway Association in this city was inaugurated at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club held at the Baptist church.

Ten Kiwanians signed as charter members, the number necessary for a chapter being 25. A committee was appointed to call on the business men to procure the additional number of names.

The proposition was presented by Sam Ramsey, Thineville good roads enthusiast.

George Frazer, escaped convict, was captured in Jellico, Tenn., and returned to this city. The reward for his return was paid by Mrs. C. A. West, Knox county jailer.

Frazer escaped from County Judge J. T. Stamper's guard while he was working on the road last summer.

Natural gas was turned into the city mains this week, after having been off since October, 1920. Consumers of the fluid are waiting for the installation of meters, however, before using the product.

The local four years ago was caused by a leak in the tubing, which was pulled apart when repairs were attempted.

The Rev. Roger T. Nooe, pastor of the First Christian church at Frankfort, is conducting a two-weeks revival here at the First Christian church. The attendance at the meetings have been large.

W. C. Wilson, of the Kentucky Experiment Station, Lexington, is in Barbourville assisting County Agent Earl Mayhew in establishing community programs and broadening the scope of the work in Knox county.

A uniform system of decoration was manifested in this city on Armistice day, due to the efforts of the American Legion. A number of firms subscribed to the flags that are being placed in the sidewalks by the legion.

Joe West, teacher in the Lower Coalport school, has tendered his resignation for the purpose of helping his mother, Mrs. C. A. West, operate the Knox county jail.

About 200 members of the association, including several prominent historians, will attend the meeting. Most of them are also members of the American Historical Association.

VIRGINIA LEADING IN BARRELED SHIPMENTS

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 17.—Virginia is leading the United States shipments of barreled apples for the year 1924, and is second in total car lot shipments for the year, according to statistics compiled by the United States bureau of agricultural economics.

Virginia's car lot shipments are packed in barrels, and a total of 8,747 cars had been shipped to Nov. 8, against 6,785 to Nov. 10 last year and 9,815 for all of 1923.

Washington is the only state which exceeds Virginia this year in car lot shipments, her total to date being 14,400 cars. Washington apples are packed in boxes, so that Virginia is in the lead for barreled shipments.

ESTABLISH NEW POINTS OF LAW IN LIQUOR CASES

ed under his coercion is no longer in force in this state (King vs. City of Owensboro), Judge Clay declared affirming judgment of the Pike circuit court jury which found Mrs. Edith Bevin guilty of unlawful possession of intoxicating liquors. She testified the whiskey was hers. The admission was sufficient to take the case to the jury, Judge Clay declared. The question of guilt of a married woman, admitting ownership of whiskey, part of which her husband gave to the prosecuting witness who stopped at the home to get a drink of whiskey, should be held for the jury, although the husband owns the premises, the court held.

In Skidmore vs. Commonwealth, in which appeal from the Powell Circuit Court won, Chief Justice Sampson writing it was held that the manual act of handling a bottle of intoxicating liquor where one taking a drink does not itself constitute unlawful possession, where one so holding does not claim ownership or control.

In prosecution for unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor where there was evidence that the accused did not own the liquor, but was only taking a drink when apprehended by officers, the lower court erred in not submitting the question of ownership to the jury, it was held.

The court of appeals, where the jury was heard sufficient evidence of unlawful transportation to carry a whiskey case to the jurors and to support the verdict, will not disturb the verdict of guilty, provided it is not flagrantly against the weight of evidence, or unless there is an absence of evidence to support it, Chief Justice Sampson recently announced when the court affirmed the Russell circuit court judgment in unsuccessful appeal of Burchett vs. the Commonwealth.

Proof of white whiskey supports an allegation of unlawful possession of spirituous and intoxicating liquors, Chief Justice Sampson declared in the affirming of the Edmonson circuit court judgment that found Charley Emerson, sawmill operator, guilty after Emerson sweetened some white whiskey one evening after supper and offered it to W. E. Miller, who with his wife and daughter, were witnesses for the commonwealth.

Miller came in late one evening to avoid a rain storm that was coming up and Emerson invited Miller and his wife into the kitchen to have a drink. Miller drank it.

A feature of this case was holding by the higher court that mis-spelled words are not ground for a demurrer to an indictment. The indictment charging the accused with having in possession "spirituous and intoxicating liquors" was not bad on demurrer, the court held, it being plain to one of common understanding that "spirituous" was intended.

The evidence in the commonwealth's case against Anderson was held insufficient to warrant conviction for operation of an illicit still found on the property of the defendant's mother of which still he did not have possession when Anderson won his appeal from the Pike circuit court judgment, in opinion of Judge Clark, reversing.

"THE SEA HAWK" RICH IN DRAMA

Sabatini's Novel is One of the Outstanding Pictures of the Present Year.

Regarded by virtue of its originality and magnitude, as even a better entertainment than the author's well remembered "Scaramouche," Rafael Sabatini's "The Sea Hawk" as pictured by Frank Lloyd and released as a First National picture, comes to local play houses today and tomorrow on the screen of the Manning theatre.

Impetuous in rich dramatic value and requiring many and massive backgrounds for its many big sequences "The Sea Hawk," as transferred to the screen by Mr. Lloyd is not only one of the outstanding cinema achievements of the past year but one of the singular triumphs of screen history.

Whereas the average superproduction has had its locale on the land, a majority of the big scenes of "The Sea Hawk" have been taken at sea, on four gigantic ships of the Sixteenth Century period, two of them rowed by galley slaves.

The story begins in England, where Master Peter Godolphin is murdered shortly after his sister Rosamund and Sir Oliver Trevellick announce their coming marriage. Oliver is accused of blood leads from the dead man's body to the doorstep of Penharrow Hall, Oliver's home. When Oliver submits his innocence to the justice, Lionel, his brother, fearing that he might be accused of the murder, has Oliver kidnapped and taken on board a ship about to sail for Algiers, thus making it seem positive that Oliver had fled from punishment for his guilt.

At sea the pirate ship on which Oliver is held prisoner is attacked by a Spanish marauder and Oliver becomes a galley slave for several years. When a Moorish galassa attacks the Spaniard Oliver frees himself from his chains, helps the Moors to conquer the ship, and is made a commander by the basha. Later, hearing that Rosamund is about to marry Lionel, Oliver goes to England and, aided by his corsairs, takes Lionel and Rosamund from the altar and returns to Algiers with them, bent on making Lionel suffer for his intrigue and convincing Rosamund of his own innocence. In Algiers, however, the fair-haired Rosamund attracts the attention of the basha and some highly interesting encounters between the forces of Oliver and the basha are said to develop.

EXPLAINS USE OF STATE LIBRARY

Public Often Confuses State Library Commission With State Library.

FRANKFORT, Nov. 17. (AP)—Due to confusion on the part of the general public as to the distinction between the state library and the state library commission, Miss Fannie C. Rawson, secretary of the commission, today set forth the services performed by her department.

While the state library are fundamentally for the information of the judges and state house workers and attorneys, the library commission sends its books out over the state while those in the state library remain here.

Services rendered by the commission, she said, are:

It operates a traveling library system through which the people of small towns and rural communities, state institutions, and county schools are supplied free with collections of books.

"It maintains a general loan collection from which individuals, study clubs and schools may borrow and the special need of the students, otherwise without library service, may be met."

It sends its secretary to address local clubs or library organizations or to meet with library boards in need of advice or assistance.

It plans and assists in campaigns for the establishment of libraries. It organizes new and reorganizes old libraries, according to modern business methods.

It answers all calls for assistance from any library in the state and gives advice in library administration, book selection and other library problems.

It gives practical instruction in book mending.

It advises with trustees on the planning of library buildings and supplies blueprint plans of library buildings of varying sizes and costs.

It prepares club programs and helps in school debate and essay work.

It compiles lists of books on special subject and recommends suitable books for purchase on request.

It answers reference questions for people all over the state who have not access to a free public library.

ISSUES CALL TO SCHOOL MASTERS

Plan Busy Two Days' Session for City and County Superintendents.

FRANKFORT, Nov. 17. (AP)—A call for the annual conference of superintendents of Kentucky schools is off the press. City and county superintendents will gather here on December 17th for a busy two days session, according to the notice, and the meeting will be broken off into many brief addresses and trading of ideas.

The program: December 17, morning, devotional exercises, President M. B. Adams, Georgetown College; Financing public education in Kentucky, Dr. S. E. Leland, University of Kentucky; general discussion led by Superintendent Hanifan, Paducah and Superintendent H. S. Cox, Covington.

Afternoon: Rural community score card, Prof. C. C. Anderson, University of Kentucky; graduate student in rural problems at Peabody College; creating public sentiment for education, Homer Nicholson, superintendent, Caldwell county, Superintendent A. C. Jones, Harlan county, Superintendent J. H. Sweeney, Washington, Superintendent W. I. Mills, Kenton county.

Mrs. I. S. Mason, superintendent of Ohio county, already has conferred with McHenry Rhoads, superintendent of public instruction, who issued the call, about county superintendents' problems, for a round table conference, and out of the study, Prof. Rhoads said today, has come this program:

1. More economic and business-like administration.
2. Better care of school property, with adequate provisions for replacement and improvement.
3. Uniform promotion of children in all grades.
4. A system related to the economic needs of the state, and an equal opportunity for all children.

Prof. Rhoads, that afternoon will conclude the meeting of county superintendents in the house of representatives' chamber with a talk on the relationship of state and county departments of education.

Meanwhile in the senate chamber the city superintendents will be holding forth. High school curricula in cities of the first, second, and third class, will be diagnosed by W. J. Craig, state supervisor of high schools. Mark Goodman, also the state supervisor of high schools, will take up curricula in cities of the fourth and fifth class. Dean Floyd Reeves, Transylvania College, will discuss private colleges in their relation to the Kentucky public school system. Many superintendents will offer suggestions. The next day, university presidents will have their day.

SWAMP LANDS ARE MADE TILLABLE

Homeseekers Are Eager for Land Which Has Been Reclaimed in Missouri.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Nov. 17. (AP)—What engineers describe as the world's greatest drainage reclamation project is now nearing completion at an ultimate cost of more than $50,000,000. Nearly 3,000,000 acres of swamp lands in the St. Francis River basin of southeastern Missouri and northeastern Arkansas will have been made tillable.

Excavations will total upwards of 500,000,000 cubic yards according to engineering estimates, or more than in the construction of the Panama Canal.

Lands which were virtually worthless now are valued at from $10 to $100 an acre. Corn, wheat, cotton and numerous other crops are successfully raised on the soils built by the deposits brought down by the Mississippi and other large rivers.

With the removal of stagnant water, the mosquito has disappeared, and with it malaria. Homeseekers have flocked in by the thousands.

The Little River drainage district, the largest ever organized, has authorized a new $5,000,000 bond issue to provide additional drainage and flood protection for its one-half million acres.

The plan originally adopted and carried out provided for the diversion of the water of the hill streams by digging a channel on the northern border of the district to the Mississippi River. This was paralleled by 10 miles of levee. More than 700 miles of ditches then were constructed to carry off the surface waters. These ditches, which are 100 feet wide and 15 feet deep, empty into Big Lake, Arkansas.

The cost of drainage has been met by bond issues, retired in 20 years by taxes levied on the lands according to benefit. The average cost has been around $20 an acre.

Mexican Farmers In Dire Need of Money

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17. (AP)—Discussion of a project for the establishment of agricultural and industrial banks to finance manufacturers and supply funds with which to develop lands which the government is restoring to the peons under the existing agrarian laws has been initiated by the permanent commission of the Bankers' Convention, called to outline a new banking system for submission to congress.

Mexico's agricultural future is menaced and crop totals already have been greatly reduced. It was pointed out during the discussions, because many villages and individuals who have been awarded lands have been unable to work them as a result of inability to buy machinery and finance themselves until their first crops are sold. These great districts once productive, now neglected and abandoned, notably in the state of Morelos, once one of the richest states in the republic.

Sweden Doing Her Bit to Prevent War

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 17. (AP)—Sweden is doing her bit toward paying the way for universal arbitration against war, and has permanently safeguarded her political relations with two of her neighbors, as is shown by two official documents just made here. Arbitration treaties with Germany and Norway have been signed, and others will probably follow soon.
